GEORGIA PEACHES LARGE AND JUICY ! HER WATERMELONS GREAT,

The Secretary Says the Southern Industrial Boom Is on Again To Young, Old, Rich, and Poor His Advice Is "Go South," as Hard Times Are Waning. BALTIMORE, Aug. 7.—The Hon. Hoke Smith, Secretary of the interior, in an interview with the

Manufacturers' Record in reward to the business outlook of the South, based on investigations

during his recent trip, says:
"I have never seen the South look so prosperous, especially Georgia. Hard times are rapidly becoming extinct, and I believe that the Southern States are moving on to the most prosperove epoch in their history. Georgia farmers will make this year better corn crops and raise more meat than ever before. It is safe to say that the food supply of that State if properly distributed will be sufficient for two years' con-

"Cotton is sufficiently advanced to insure a good crop, and while Texas is behind in probable production, Georgia and the adjoining States will furnish an average yield." The Secretary is enthusiastic over the signs of prosperity among the fruit growers of Georgia. "More peaches," he said, "have been raised and marketed than ever before in the history of the State. They are large and julcy, and in the Eastern markets have almost entirely supplant-

Eastern markets have almost entirely supplanted California peaches. The watermelon crop, too, was a tremendous one, and in most parts of the State a profitable one. Grape growing is also making rapid progress."

Secretary Smith, says he believes that the industrial boom in the South, which was temporarily set back by the late panic, is on again. Cotton manufacturing was never more successful in the South than it is to-day, and all through the cotton beit new mills are being erected, and old mills are being enlarged. Much of this is being done by home capital, although a number of New England people are making large investments in cotton manufacturing companies in the South. In the iron district of Alabama a number of furnaces have recently gone into blast, and the workmen in that section are now fully employed, and many of them at increased wages. All over the South the demand for labor is increasing and at good prices. Conditions were never better for a return of prosperity unexampled in the history of that section.

"If our people continue in their present conservative way," says Mr. Smith, "much of the flow of Eastern capital, which has hitherto travelled elsewhere, will come to us. The place for a young man, an old man, a rich man, or a poor man willing to work and anxious to improve his fortune," concluded the Secretary, is in the South."

She says that in 1893 her husband got her to take some strong drug, and that when she became very ill, as she believed from the effects of it, he wanted her to take a larger dose, and she refused. She said that after some of their separations she secured employment, but she had to give it up when he rejoined her, and she has been bennihess at times and has had to sell her lewelry and wedding present. Her husband, she says, recently inherited about $50,000 from his grandfather, capt, Caivin C. He had told her, she declares, that on the death of his grandfather be would provide for her, but he had not done so. He told her that he did not want his grandfather to know he was providing for her while the grandfather lived. Mrs. Moore was about to bring suit against him in Tennessee in 1803 for divorce, she says, but he threatened that he would get lots of evidence sgainst him.

A reporter for Tut Suy interviewed resterday a holder of United States Cordage Company's bonds who endeavored to withdraw them from under the Protective Committee's reorganization plan on Tursday, and also the confidential representative of one of the largest banks in the city, who accompanied the bondhoider to Mr. Rathbone's office with the view of assisting the bondholder, who is a customer of the bank, in recovering possession of his bonds. Both asserted positively that the report of Mr. Rathbone's conversation with them, as printed in Tug Suy, was substantially correct. They said further that Mr. Rathbone endeavored to convince them that his committee would secure better terms for the bonds deposited with it than those offered by the regular reorganization plan by bidding against the recorganization committee when the property is sold under foreclosure of the mortgage. Holders of bonds who have endeavored to withdraw them from the Protective Committee have been informed that the committee will consider and decide upon their requests to-day.

TRUSTFUL MRS. JACOB ROTH.

A Farmer's Wife Invests in the Envelope Game and Loses $10.

ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 7. Mrs. Jacob Roth, the wife of a West Orange farmer, was swindled out or $10 yesterday afternoon by two well-dressed young men who drove up to her house in a buggy and persuaded her to try their scheme for suddenly acquiring wealth. One of them for suddenly acquiring wealth. One of them asked Mrs. Roth to open an envelope he took from a satchel. Inside the envelope the woman found several sheets of writing paper, pens, pencils, and a five-dollar bill. She opened several other envelopes and found $5 in each.

When the young man who did the talking offered to sell her for $5 a dozen packages of the paper, each one warranted to contain a prize, she eagerly agreed. She had nothing but a tendollar bill, which the men said they could not change. They kept it and promised to send her another dozen of the prize packages the next day. As soon as the strangers left Mrs. Roth began to tear open her envelopes. She didn't discover any prizes. Capt. Bamford of the West Orange police, said to-day that several other farmers' wives had been swindled in the same way.

NEW EAST RIVER BRIDGE.

Brooklyn Elevated Hand's Effort to Get the Right to Run Trains Over. The Commissioners of the New East River Bridge held a meeting yesterday in their offices at 51 Chambers street, Col. Andrew D. Baird, President of the Commission, in the chair. The principal business was the consideration of a proposition submitted on July 3, last by Frederick Uhlmann, President of the East River Bridge Company, offering to sell that company's rights, consents, and franchises to the Commisston for $200,000, provided the Brooklyn Elevated Railroad Company be allowed to run its tracks across the bridge. The company includes in its proposition equities in property and bank accounts valued at $85,000.

Stephen M. Hoye of Brooklyn opposed this proposition. "I object to the Commission's en-tering into any agreement, because this is a carefully planned proposition on which the bridge company expects at some future day to carefully planned proposition on which the bridge company expects at some future day to spring into a contract. You'll observe that the whole proposition recites a consideration which would, if assented to by the Commission, make the bridge company the controllers of the bridge, if not the owners, in addition to giving them $200,000 for their baper franchise. It would also entail on the citizens of Brooklyn an expense of a couple of millions. If this proposition is accepted the bridge company will virtually hold the city of Brooklyn by the throat for the next century."

Mr. I himann replied that all the bridge company wanted was $125,000 reimbursement for its actual expenditure, providing the Brooklyn Elevated could reserve the right to contract upon reasonable terms with the Commission for the running of its trains across. The elevated railroad company already had a contract to run trains across the bridge in case it should be built by the East River Bridge Company.

Col. Baird expressed his doubts as to the ability of the Board to grant or sell that privilege. Commissioner Deeves said: "I, for one, am not prepared to make any contract with a corporation to run trains over the bridge until we find out what the franchise is worth. We do not now know its value. It may be worth millions—ail that it will cost to build the bridge. We could not estimate it now."

Mr. Ulmann asserted his company would be that it will cost to build the bridge. We could not estimate it now."

Mr. Uhimann asserted his company would be willing to enter into any equitable arrangement and pay whatever sum was fair for the privilege. He continued:

"It would be cheaper for the Commission to accept our plan, because it represents the work of two years, and our expenses have been moderate considering the expenses of the Rapid Transit Commission in this city. I do not think any engineer could lay out a bridge extending from Broadway in Williamsburgh to Grand street in this city without intringing on our rights."

The whole matter was referred to Leffert L. Buck, chief engineer, and William G. Choate

KINGSBRIDGE ROUTE CHIN-CHIN.

Hearing Postponed on the New Applications to the Aldermen. The Railroad Committee of the Board of Aldermen held a public meeting yesterday, to listen to arguments for and against the new applications of the Metropolitan Traction Company and the Third Avenue Rallroad Company for the Kingsbridge route franchise. Lawyer Luke F. Cozans, for the traction company, asked that the hearing be adjourned for a month, because so many of the property owners were away and his company had a proposition which it wished to submit to them. He also raised the question whether the committee had a right to hold the public hearing, as the resolution passed by the Board of Aldermen recited that the hearing would be held by the Committee of the hearing would be held by the Committee of the Whole.

Edward Lauterbach, counsel for the Third avenue company, onposed a long adjournment, but said he would consent to a short one.
Then Lawson N. Fuller got in his innings and made a speech advocating a long adjournment. Mr. Lauterbach reminded him that he used to be an aily of the Third avenue company.
"Come back to us, Fuller," he said. "You have fallen among strange gods."
"Not on your life," responded Mr. Fuller with a grin, "I've got my second sight," and as Mr. Fuller is repularly supposed to be 123 years old, this remark caused a laugh.

The matter of a short adjournment had been practically decided upon when L. K. Bingham cried excitedly:

"Put your foot down on this clantrap. The lawyers are seeking to fool your honorable board. They are tricksters. The franchise is a nightmare, and we must have the matter settled. I warn you that there is a nigger in the wood pile. There is more beneath the surface than appears above, and that is the reason they want it adjourned."

The hearing was adjourned to the 15th.
